

Undergraduate Research Publishing Opportunities

FUSIO

The Bentley Undergraduate Research Journal

Why Publish?

Excellent Opportunity to Showcase Skills and Abilities to Future Employers or Grad Schools.

Satisfaction of Providing New Knowledge or Insight to the Global Community of Scholars.

Take a Deep Dive to Further Refine Your Knowledge of a Specific Area of Interest.

Significantly Strengthen Critical Thinking and Writing Skills.

How and Where do I Publish?

- Discipline Specific Academic Journals
- General Interest Journals
- Fusio: The Bentley Undergraduate Research Journal

Fusio

Process and Basics

- Looking for Papers that are high quality, provide new knowledge or novel reinterpretation of existing knowledge
- Double Blind Peer Review Process
- Expect review process to take time – not ‘send and forget’.
 - Conditional Acceptance
 - Revise and Resubmit
 - Formatting
- Helpful: working directly with a faculty advisor as you go through submission and review process
- Caveat: Current Status of Journal

Contact Information

Editor:

- Aaron L. Jackson (ajackson@bentley.edu), Associate Dean for UG Business Programs

Associate Editors:

- Liz Brown (ebrown1@bentley.edu), Associate Professor, Law, Taxation & Financial Planning
- Danielle Hartigan (dhartigan@bentley.edu), Associate Professor, Natural and Applied Sciences
- Christian Rubio (crubio@bentley.edu), Director, Honors Program and Associate Professor, Modern Languages
- David Szymanski (dszymanski@bentley.edu), Associate Professor of Natural and Applied Sciences and Department Chair
- David Yates (dyates@bentley.edu), Associate Professor, Computer Information Systems

For more information regarding Fusio, please see www.fusiojournal.org

Thank you

BENTLEY
UNIVERSITY