PARTIR SIN GUIA: SHARED EXPERIENCES & TOOLS FOR SUCCESS

"Partir Sin Guia" (Spanish for "Venturing Without Guidance") is a platform where entrepreneurs and creatives from different countries in Latin America come together to share their experiences, inspiring others to start their own journey. Their main form of the platform is a podcast, in which they give people an open space to tell the stories behind their own projects.

Andrea's time during quarantine in her home country Honduras allowed her to reflect on herself and her surroundings. She thought, "with so much negativity and bad news being bombarded to us constantly, I wanted to take my time and energy and focus on something that would create a positive impact in my community." As someone who has always been art-oriented and passionate, she realized that there wasn't a community back home that embraced creatives like her and that allowed them to share experiences and tools for success. She started "Partir Sin Guia" to solve this problem.
