

Course Load/Overload Policy

Policy: Standard course load is defined as follows:

Full-time day students:	12 to 16.5 credits
-------------------------	--------------------

Undergraduate students may take a course overload of 18 credits without permission if their cumulative GPA is 2.7 or higher (Fourth year with a GPA of 2.0 or higher). Undergraduate students with a GPA below 2.7 must obtain permission to take an overload. New students may not register for 18 hours until they have completed one semester of study at Bentley.

Procedure: Submit a written petition to the Office of Academic Services during the Drop/Add period.

Summer Course Overload Policy *effective Summer 2021

For the summer 2021 term only, undergraduate students who meet the regular policy criteria, for credit overload will be allowed to take up to 19 credits at Bentley.

No more than 19 credits total may be applied to your Bentley degree for the summer 2021 term, including Bentley and Course Away credit. The summer term is defined as courses offered between the end of the Bentley spring term until the beginning of the Bentley fall term, including the May intensive. Students taking courses for credit beyond this limit may not apply the additional course credits to their academic program.

Students with questions about the Course Overload Policy should email Academic Services, ga\_academic\_services@bentley.edu
